Wilkinsonville Unity Park

CHRONICLE photos by Alexander A. Belisle

SUTTON - A group of residents in the Wilkinsonville area of town has formed an ad hoc committee to plan a playground similar in design to Veterans Field in Manchaug. Plans call for the park to be called "Wilkinsonville Unity Park." A site has not as yet been chosen.

In order to achieve its goal, the committee has embarked on an ambitious list of fundraisers, including a Harvest Dance co-sponsored by the Veterans Field Committee. The dance will be held November 23 at the Dudley-Gendron American Legion Post. Tickets are a very reasonable $2.00 and can be purchased from Ethel O'Day at the Town Hall, Heritage Video, from Phil Berube (476-3366), or from Fran Couture (865-2558, 7-9 p.m.). A raffle will be held in conjunction with the dance.

Other fund raisers include an opportunity to have your own astrological natal chart prepared for a $10.00 donation. This is a computer-generated individualized 4-5 page report based on the date, time and place of birth. Great Christmas idea! Checks or money orders should be made out to "The Wilkinsonville Unity Park" and sent to P.O. Box 329, Sutton, MA 01590. Don't forget to include your return address.

How about a letter from Santa Claus? For a donation of your choice, your child can receive a personalized letter from the jolly elf himself. Your child's letter to Santa should be addressed to: Santa Claus, c/o Wilkinsonville Unity Park, P.O. Box 329, Sutton, MA 01590.

Congregate Housing:
Independence with Security

By Alex G. Belisle

MILLBURY - No one could have better characterized it than Mrs. Aurore Lavigne who stated in a tone mixed with sincerity and appreciation, "This is a palace compared to a nursing home!" Mrs. Lavigne was articulating her opinion of the Millbury Congregate Housing, located on Colonial Drive. And she should know, since she came to the Congregate Housing in August from a nursing home. "I can do what I want, when I want," she added, escorting this reporter around the spacious apartment which she presently shares with two other women.

As we moved through the large kitchen where residents prepare their own meals, she said, "I have my own bedroom; I eat when I want, and get up when I want. I wanted to be more independent, but I knew I couldn't be alone," said Mrs. Lavigne, who is on dialysis. She showed with pride her pleasant bedroom in which were her bed, covered by a colorful bedspread - one of many she has and which, she confesses, she is forever changing to keep her room fresh - various bureaus on which were personal mementos, a comfortable easy chair, and a television which she said she uses when she prefers to have some time alone.

Apartment residents also share a large living room in which are special items which help personalize the room. Here, residents can get together to watch television or entertain family or friends if they choose.

Lisa Bennes, Director of the Congregate Housing Program, said she is puzzled why more Millbury seniors do not avail themselves of the program since the facility offers the best of both worlds - privacy and community. Bennes said congregate housing offsets the social isolation which so many senior citizens feel when they no longer are able to be as active as they once were. Congregate living allows residents to have the company and security of their peers while retaining their independence and their privacy. Bennes feels that congregate living is an attractive alternative providing most of the care and security that many elderly need if they choose and are able to avoid nursing homes or rest homes.

The Congregate Housing Program, which is sponsored by the District Nursing Society and managed by the Millbury Housing Authority, provides many of the services which the elderly need. Among these, residents are visited by the District Nurses who care for their medical needs, Home-care Workers who come in to clean, wash their clothes, and do some of their light shopping. Residents might also want to have their lunch meals delivered to them, and might choose to participate in the many activities available at the Adult Day Health Care Facility which is conveniently located in the same building.

Bennes explained that it is not difficult to qualify for congregate housing as long as an individual does not need 24 hour medical supervision. One resident who has cerebral palsy has Home Health Assistance seven days a week and attends the Adult Day Health Care facility five days a week where she receives a hot meal at lunchtime. Bennes said the woman then prepares a light supper for herself. This resident also has a Home Care Worker who assists her with shopping and laundry.

Marion Young, a resident who is deaf, explained through Bennes that she was supposed to enter a nursing home after she was released from the hospital. "We get good care," she explained. "We are all friendly; we get along. Lisa (Bennes) helps me with my phone calls and looks out for us. She takes good care of us," she said.

Some of the residents at Millbury's Congregate Housing facility on Colonial Drive: (l-r) Ida Swenson, Rita Bettencourt, Emma Dubois, and Dorothy Rule.

Bennes cautioned that congregate living is not for everyone, and some residents, after giving the program a year, chose to live on their own. But Bennes feels that there are a significant number of Millbury seniors who would enjoy and could prosper in this type of environment. Any senior who feels they might enjoy or need congregate living can reach Bennes at 865-2960, Monday through Friday. She can provide more information and arrange for a tour.

Congregate housing may not be for everyone, but if you are as full of life as Aurore Lavigne, you could be the next one to say, as she did, "I love it, and I'm happy."

An Evening of Halloween Fun

MILLBURY - Members of the Millbury Youth Center (photo above) hosted an evening of Halloween fun for over 180 children at the Haunted House held at the Youth Center on October 31. Bad weather put a damper on trick or treating, but local children who attended had a great time with Halloween games, scary tricks and sweet treats.

Youth Center members did an excellent job of building the exhibits and playing the scary characters. Dressed in creepy outfits and make up, they leapt out of corners and howled in the shadows. Local groups and businesses made this event successful by funding the candy and props.

We The People...

Responsible to All

To the Editor:

I am writing to clarify some issues that I feel were stated incorrectly or were misleading in the report of the School Committee meeting on October 23.

Concerning the discussion on sixth grade math grouping, the report states "approximately 30 students are in the high group this year." The fact is, there is no high math group this year. The main thrust of the whole discussion was how the needs of the 30+ students who had previously been in a high math group were being met in a heterogeneous class.

Mr. Rogers noted that his building "has 500 students not just 30." This is misleading. The 30 students referred to were sixth graders. There are about 150 students in the sixth grade. This is 20% of the sixth grade.

Mr. Rogers asked that the issue not be used to judge his staff after "only three weeks" of school. At the time of this meeting, 36 school days had elapsed. This is more than 7 weeks.

Mr. Rogers is correct in stating that he is "responsible to all of the students." This includes low, average and high ability students.

Thank You...

The Millbury Youth Center members, the Director, and the Youth Commission would like to express sincere appreciation to Apple Drug, Devoe TV, I.B.A., the Lionesses, Millbury Credit Union, Millbury Firemen, Millbury Police Association, and Whitney Insurance for funding the recent Haunted House. Your support made it possible for the Youth Center members to entertain over 180 children.

Book Fair at Shaw School

MILLBURY - A book fair will be held at the Shaw Elementary School Media Center November 18-25. Book fairs offer children a wonderful opportunity to choose books for themselves and, especially at this time of year, to buy books for others as gifts. The public is invited to attend the Book Fair on Thursday, November 21, from 7-9 p.m. The school earns a percentage of all sales, so your participation in this fund raising event is encouraged.

On November 18 and 19, children will have an opportunity to browse and look at the books for sale. They will be given an order sheet at that time to bring home to discuss their selections with their parents. On the remaining days of the sale, the children will come in with their classes to purchase books.

Another Point of View

Danger Ahead!

By Lawrence Moore

It's the morning after Election Day, the pundits are predicting, the analysts are interpreting, incumbents are worrying, aspirants are elated.....and I'm scared stiff.

So early in the game, so many conclusions have been drawn from one upset in Pennsylvania that I'm scared about the loose and flimsy nature of our political system. Immediately, the Democrats make plans to hit hard on the National Health Care issue, absolutely positive that issue decided the Wofford-Thornburgh race for the Senate. Immediately, the President cancels his Asian trip "so he can be on hand while Congress is in Session." Immediately, domestic issues move to the front burner in the White House. Immediately, Mario Cuomo spends a sleepless night toying with the idea that George Bush can be beaten ONE YEAR FROM NOW!

Unfortunately, not one of these earth-shaking decisions is soundly based on well thought out policies and programs. You just don't create a National Health Care system. There is in place a complicated payment, insurance, and delivery system that must be considered and integrated. Private physicians and care providers must have input. We're not considering a Canada or an England with a population smaller than ours. We're proposing to disrupt a system that is serving hundreds of millions of people. Not one plan that has been proposed has gotten beyond the philosophy stage into the nitty-gritty basics of the scheme. Promises, promises.....campaign promises and all they guarantee is danger ahead.

Millbury Selectmen's Meeting Digest

YOU, Inc. Presents Board with Center School Proposal

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The November 5 Selectmen's meeting convened at its usual time, 7:00 P.M., with all members present. Minutes were approved for October 15, which included the Police Chief interviews. Lachance noted that Secretary Debbie Plante's minutes were so complete that he did not have to listen to the tape of the meeting to review them.

Administrative Assistant Earl Chase reported that in a telephone conversation with the State Civil Service office, he was informed that the certified list for the Chief of Police position should be ready by November 7. He said he has made arrangements for the list to be picked up. The three candidates are Officer Richard Handfield, Sergeant Lincoln Barton, and Sergeant Stephen Webb.

Lachance asked when the Provisional Chief's position will cease.

Chase replied that the position will cease the day before the Permanent Chief's appointment date. He also noted in response to a question from Lachance that Provisional Chief Ron Stokowski will return to his previous position of Senior Sergeant.

Bleau asked how the Board would proceed in choosing a new Chief after the list is made available. He said all three candidates were excellent, and offered the possibility of having a straw vote before an actual official vote which would allow each Board member to make their choice and reasons known. He said that by doing so, it would be possible for a unanimous vote to be made in full support of the new chief.

After some discussion, all Board members agreed a straw vote could prevent fragmentation and that it would be good for the whole Police Department as well as the new Chief if there was unanimous support.

The Board voted 4-1, Cristo opposed, to allow 10 minutes of further questioning of the three candidates for police chief prior to making an appointment. Gauthier and Bleau said they had a few more questions to ask each candidate.

The interviews will take place at next week's meeting, followed by an appointment later in that meeting.

Skating Rink

The Board met with Randy Lennox to continue a discussion begun at last week's meeting on his request for three permits relating to a roller skating rink to be located at the former Ballard Motors on Howe Avenue. Lennox is seeking a common victualers license, a Sunday entertainment license, and a license for three coin operated video machines.

Last week, the board voted to continue the discussion to allow for any abutters to voice opinions on the proposal. It was noted that the Board was aware that no public hearing was required nor was notification of abutters, but that hopefully abutters would be made aware through the newspapers prior to the Board acting on the licenses.

Bleau suggested that the Board hold off again on issuing the permits until next week so that residents in the area could be more aware of the proposal which he said he considers a drastic change for the neighborhood. He also noted that he was not against a roller skating rink per se.

Cristo said the discussion last week centered on the sound that might be generated by the music coming from the arena. He said he had suggested that Lennox talk to the abutters across the street.

Lennox said he has not had the time to do that as yet.

Virginia Picking, whose business abuts the former Ballard Motors, asked why abutters would have to be made aware when other businesses have moved into the area in the past without any notification to abutters. "Why now," she asked.

Cristo said the Board discussed that last week and didn't want to set a precedent. He said Bleau had suggested notification of abutters because the type of operation is something new to the area and he felt there was an obligation to make people aware of what was proposed.

Robert Picking, who is a principal in the Ballard Motors building, said he spoke with people across the street and they indicated they saw no problems.

Mrs. Picking also noted that a house across the street is for sale and said she didn't think the new owners would care. "I don't see why this has to go on and on and on," she said. "I don't think this is quite fair. You haven't done this before, and now all of a sudden you are going to start a precedent."

"I take exception to that," Bleau countered. "We are talking about a change in the use of property here." He said it was not "by any stretch of the imagination" an industrial use in an Industrial Zone, but rather a commercial use. He said it was just a quirk in the zoning laws that abutters are not notified.

"The Board wouldn't be discussing this if it was another auto dealer going in there," Bleau said. He asked that any decision on the permits be put off until next week. If no abutters contact the Board in the interim, he said he would assume there is no problem with the proposal.

Mrs. Picking said she would like to see the Board vote tonight as she knows what it is to be put off. She said they could deal with any opposition later.

Cristo noted that the Board can't take back the licenses once they are approved.

Gauthier said he went along last week with putting off a decision to this week and that he was ready then to vote as he saw no problems with the proposal.

Lachance said someone from the Planning Board should have been present to answer questions if there is a question of a non-conforming use.

Bleau said Town Planner Dave Hulseberg indicated he wanted a parking plan.

Cristo asked if the Board wanted to postpone the issue again.

The vote was 4-1, Bleau opposed, to grant the licenses.

Lachance moved to add that the hours of operation as stated by Lennox in his letter be made a restriction on the business. The motion passed.

YOU, Inc. Proposal

The Board met next with Maurice Boisvert, Director of YOU, Inc. a private Social Service Agency that offers educational programs for youth who come from residential placements and have a background of abuse. Mental health and counseling services are also available through the agency.

Boisvert briefly explained a proposal to make use of the old Center School. Plans call for a 43-student school with a program that will address the educational, social and psychological needs of the students in an intense way. There will be one staff person for every four students. Emphasis will be on vocational education to prepare the most serious cases for the job world.

Boisvert noted that up to 40% of the students with less severe problems went on to a college level program after leaving YOU's educational program on Plantation Street in Worcester.

Students would be in the program at the old school from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. five days a week.

YOU, Inc. plans to renovate the inside of the building from the first floor up to the third floor. The annual operating costs are estimated at $10,000 to $12,000.

Boisvert said that a bank has expressed an interest in a loan for renovations for $160,000. YOU, Inc. will be looking for a 5 year lease. If in the future a longer term lease is arranged, other renovations might take place. All custodial, groundwork, plowing and landscaping would be contracted out. Parking would be on the Center School grounds.

Students participating in the school program will be in the 15-16 age group and comprised of both male and females.

Boisvert said if the Selectmen show encouragement for the proposal, he and his Board of Directors will be looking to continue working towards a January date for the program.

He also said he wanted to work cooperatively with the Youth Commission which operates a Youth Center in the building. He said he would be meeting with the Director of the Youth Center and the Commission to explore areas where they may be supportive.

Cristo said the Board will sit down with the Youth Commission and the Town Planner to discuss the proposal. If they decide to go forward, Cristo said Town Counsel will be asked to assist in the bidding process.

Sewerage Fee

The Board agreed to send a letter to the Upper Blackstone Water Abatement District informing them that the Town of Millbury is not responsible for the sewerage fee for Wheelabrator and that no agreement was ever made to that effect. Cristo suggested that they check with G. Worth Landers of the Department of Public Works as Worcester may have made such an agreement.

Millbury has been sent a bill for the Wheelabrator Sewage in the amount of $23,000.

The meeting adjourned at 8:50 p.m..

Sutton Library News

Did I make it on time? Do you have anything left of that Christmas Club check? Hope so, 'cause have we got some gift suggestions for you! Let's talk first about children's books. Many express dismay at the price of these 30-odd page wonders, but once they realize about four-color printing of the illustrations, they begin to understand. Colored illustrations are not the only difference between juvenile and adult books. How many times does an adult read a book? Then consider how many times a child reads a book. Once? Don't you wish!

Who was it who said that one of the best things about becoming a grandparent is the chance to read Dr. Seuss again? And again--and again--and again. Try to skip a page when you're reading to a child--try shortening or changing the words to make bedtime come faster. All of a sudden, this child is a genius (must be to be able to read at such a young age). That little face that was starting to relax on the pillow, those chubby little hands that were resting comfortably on the coverlet, become things of the past. Now they're all at attention, hands wrestling with the pages of the book you're holding, eyes moving quickly up and down, over and under to make sure you hadn't skipped more than they thought. Now it will take at least ten more minutes to get them back to that glazed state when you thought of putting one over on this kid. Serves you right.

If you want to make a purchase of a child's book but don't want to spend the money without thought, come see what we have. Look them over, judge whether the age is appropriate or the message is one you want to convey. Browse here without being jostled and decide on some of the best juvenile books such as: Eyewitness Books: a hardcover series of beautifully photographed books, published by Alfred A. Knopf, on subjects ranging from money, inventions, flags and trees to good stuff like dinosaurs, skeletons, reptiles and insects. You haven't lived until you've seen a turtle skeleton. All ages from 2 to 92 are fascinated by these, and can be enjoyed by a grandparent and the grandchild on his/her lap.

Eyewitness Junior Books are the paperback form of the series with some of the titles being Amazing Beetles, Amazing Wolves, etc. Despite the lower price, the photography, format and information is almost the same. Manchaug library has this series and Mrs. A. will be glad to show them to you.

Other juvenile books worthy of your attention are: Hark! A Christmas Sampler, by Jane Yolen, illustrated by Tomie DePaola, full of Christmas poems, stories and music. Christmas In July, by Yorinks, Deck the Halls by Michael Hague, and The Story of Christmas and La Historia de Navidad with pictures by Jane Ray, gospel by Matthew and Luke, are the other seasonal offerings. Some Birthday and Appelemando's Dreams are both by Patricia Polacco. The Butterfly Jar by Fred Moss (who's coming out with another soon), Van Allsburg's The Wretched Stone, Paul Simon's At the Zoo (yes, the Paul Simon), Reader's Digest Children's World Atlas, plus Catskill Eagle, with text from Melville's Moby Dick and spectacular painting by Thomas Locker, are among other new offerings for children.

These are just a few that will delight, and books are perfect for grab bag gifts or for Christmas donations to the disadvantaged since they don't involve sizes or gender. Give a gift that will last a lifetime-the gift of reading. Hold on to some of that check, though, because soon there will be some suggestions for the older "children" on your list; and wonderful suggestions they are, too!

Come see these books, or just come for any old reason.

Board and Recreation Commission Discuss Marion's Camp

By Lawrence Moore

SUTTON - Responding to an invitation from the Recreation Commission, Selectmen David Strieby, Wally Johnson and Rick LaBonte met with Commission members Ed Wrenn, Marilyn McCleod, Neil Newton and Harvey Bileau. Mike Chizy and Town Administrator Dexter Blois joined the group later. The Commission called the meeting to review the past year's activity at Marion's Camp and to establish goals for the 1992 season.

The classification of the beach was discussed. The Board of Health has said, but has not yet confirmed in writing, that the beach cannot be considered an "accredited beach" but must be termed a "bathing beach" because there are no lavatories, no running water and no changing rooms.

Wrenn expressed concern about the insurance liability to which the town might be exposed. Past discussion at Selectmen's meetings has indicated that with proper "warning" signs the risk is minimal.

The Selectmen indicated that they plan to have the park open to the public from dawn to dusk when the Recreation Swimming program is not using the beach.

Discussion then centered around what needs to be done to get the facility ready for use. McCleod asked what help the Commission might be able to receive from other town departments. Strieby replied, "Little or none. On a one-time basis I think we probably could see if something could be done," he said.

LaBonte asked if anyone would have a problem with the commission laying out its requests and, through Blois, finding out what hours might be available from the highway department for assistance. He also reminded the group that he had recommended, when landfill hours were kept to the 3 day schedule, that the hours be kept in the highway budget for such purposes.

In answer to LaBonte's question, Blois said a Hurricane Bob damage payment would cover the cost of replacing sand at the beach. In addition, he said with a list he could pick away at jobs during the winter and perhaps put on a detail in the spring to get the camp open for the first of June.

Strieby stressed that the list should not be a "maintenance" list.

Neil Newton asked what the problems would be if the beach could not be staffed for public swimming.

Blois said the town appears to be covered as long as "swim at your own risk" signs are posted.

Wrenn said, and Blcis agreed, that a mishap at the beach could be expensive as far as future insurance rates are concerned.

Newton wondered what message the town would be sending if the beach was staffed only part of the time.

Johnson then asked why the commission wants to absorb all of these responsibilities. "You have your programs to run," he said. "One of your programs is the swim program. You are going to use town owned property to run that program. Worry about that program."

Strieby added, "Don't worry about the other 22 acres."

Wrenn insisted that the responsibility for staffing and parking lies with the Commission.

"It's not supposed to," Johnson said. "We are not promoting public swimming. The town owns the property. If someone feels like swimming, let him swim. The Town of Sutton is not inviting him to swim. The sign is there: 'Swim at your own risk.' If that gets out of hand, take steps to control it, or we close it. That part of the program should be our (Selectmen's) worry."

LaBonte suggested that the Commission bring a program to the Town Meeting and try to have it funded. "If the Town Meeting approves it, you go ahead. If they don't, you have to make cutbacks," he said.

Chizy said he feels there is substantial support for the use of Marion's Camp. "I think you might get more backing for your budget than you expect. We have to be optimistic," he said.

Strieby said the opening expenses should be included in the budget, even if town help becomes available.

Johnson insisted that the Highway Department could and would find the time to help, but Blois cautioned that the town might be accepting more roads and that snow problems are still unknown.

Strieby called the regular meeting to order at 7:38.

Sutton High School Junior Class, Phil Berube presented the town with a check for $486, partial proceeds from a haunted house pre-Halloween event held in Manchaug. The Junior Class received $324 and letters of commendation for participants. This brings Veterans Field contributions to the Town's recreation activities to almost $6,000.

LaBonte said the Veterans Field Committee and the Unity Park Committee (the name recently chosen by a group of residents from the Wilkinsonville area) are planning a joint dance at the Dudley Gendron Post on November 23 to raise funds for playgrounds in Manchaug and Wilks. Tickets will be $2 per person.

Harvey Bileau said he is awaiting word from the North Pole about another marathon visit from Santa on the Common this holiday season.

"People are saying we're making history in the town with all of our functions at Veterans Field," Berube said. "That's why we're getting together with the people from Wilks. We're going to include everybody."

Cash Flow

Strieby brought up a letter received by Blois from the School Committee in response to his memo of October 15 concerning the necessity to delay some routine accounts payable because of temporary cash flow problems.

The School Committee, while complimenting Blois on his handling of the town's financial problems, expressed concern about possible problems.

Blois, in personal calls to Spence and Anderson, assured them that all key vendors had been informed of the delay and that most were understanding and appreciative of being provided with information in advance. Blois also informed them, and the school officials, that emergency situations would be met. He felt there would be no problems since "the vendors know when they're going to get their money."

Blois said the procedure was taken to protect the town and to avoid excessive costly borrowing. Tax anticipation notes have not been used since 1989 and were used then for the same reason: the $1,100,000 obligation due November 15. Because tax bills go out around November 1 and are not due until December 5, there are not enough cash receipts to operate normally.

"As prudent business people," Blois said, "I think Perry (Town Treasurer Dave Perry) and I are managing the money in the best way we can."

Blois said he appreciated the letter from the School Committee but did not think a response was necessary. "I think what we are doing is in the Town's best interest. The decision however is not theirs to make. The decision lies with Dave Perry alone. The School Committee, along with all town departments, was advised of what we had to do. I don't feel it's Perry's responsibility to ask them if we can do it. Perry and I work very well together, and in concert we do the best we can to manage the money."

LaBonte said "You've done the best you can over the last three years, and the town has been well served by both you and Perry. I know you'll do the right thing this year and obviously their concern will be looked at along with other people's concerns. I'm sure the decision you and Perry made is in the town's best interest."

"Dexter is running the town like a business," Chizy said, "like a darn good business, and we're in darn good shape because of him."

Strieby said it is the Selectmen's responsibility to see that the town's obligations are paid, "and it's through Blois and the Treasurer that those obligations are met. It's this Board's responsibility to manage the affairs in the best interests of the town," he said.

Blois went on to explain that grants, revenue sharing and other income are commingled in town funds. He said that at any one time, an account can be in the red or in the black, but as time goes on, with good management, the town comes out even. The concerns of any department are understood and respected, he said, and are appreciated as an expression of the department's concern about its own operation.

Chizy then said, "The Board feels that Blois and Perry are doing the right thing."

The meeting adjourned at 8:25.

If the President's trip to Asia was so important, why did he cancel it at a moment's notice? If the trip was so unimportant that it could be canceled at a moment's notice, why was it scheduled in the first place? Why is he staying home? Does he have a concrete program to help our economic disaster? Will his very presence change our recession into prosperity? Does he have a program set by which a government advisory panel, to reduce pollution and dependence on oil, will order an increase in the number of electric cars to 200,000 from 1,000 by the turn of the century; a program to boost the popularity of the cars, to increase their range from 75 to 150 miles without recharge, to increase maximum speed from 37 to 75 miles per hour, and to reduce their price from three times that of gasoline-powered cars to almost the same price?

Does he have any such program? He darn well better, because that's the kind of nitty-gritty planning that (you guessed it) IS NOW AT WORK IN JAPAN! That's the kind of economic planning that neither the Republicans nor the Democrats have blue-printed. Promises, promises.....campaign promises, and all they guarantee is danger ahead.

Mario Cuomo is a prophet everywhere, except in his home State. His deficit has gone up, his taxes have gone up, he has back-loaded costs to counties and municipalities, his administrative and operative payroll has not been seriously cut, his welfare costs are high, his Northern Tier is carrying (and paying for) his troubled lower counties, and public services and infrastructure have either been cut or made more costly. If he can't solve New York's problems, how can he have the nerve to offer to solve National problems?

One Senatorial election, and immediately all the solutions become clear, and all the saviors come forward. The trouble is: they all know what needs to be done, but not one of them (to date) has the plan to do it. And that spells nothing but more of the same Danger Ahead!

On The Shelf

By Rosemary Waltos

Joseph Wysocki wants instructions on how to build a southwest Indian-style adobe oven in his backyard. Jeannie Hogan wants to start her own computer graphics design business and needs information specifically related to that industry. Eugenia Madison wants to read the fifth book in the Eddings sci-fi series published in the seventies.

After a search of our circulating and reference collections for Joseph and Jeannie, we found nothing on how to build an adobe oven, and very little on starting up the type of business that Jeannie has in mind. For Eugenia, we searched our science fiction collection in both paperback and hardcover and found the first three titles in the series, but we do not own the fifth.

These are three examples of the types of information that people typically are in search of when they come to the Millbury Public Library (MPL).

Where do MPL users go when we do not have the materials they are looking for? They go no farther than the library's four walls and let us do the "leg work." We do this by either purchasing or borrowing materials in need from another library. In many cases, Interlibrary Loan, or ILL as it is referred to in library circles, is the most viable option. ILL expands the range of materials available to users by enabling us, the borrowing library, to request library materials, or a copy of the material, from another library.

The ILL process is simple for you, the user. After a search of our collection determines the material you want is not available in our collection, we take down essential information about your request. Then all you have to do is wait for us to call when the material arrives from the lending library. Borrowing periods are approximately two weeks and there are no renewals.

ILL is not as magical as it may seem from the description above. It is a complex process and one that can mean judgement calls must be made at several levels. It involves the work of many library personnel at the borrowing and lending libraries as well as regional centers. These people do any number of things. They verify bibliographic information, search for titles requested, research subject areas, initiate and follow through on requests for materials, process materials in and out, and make sure that items are sent out and returned safely. The process is carried out under the pressure of deadlines to assure that you receive your materials as quickly as possible.

The Central Massachusetts Regional Library System's ILL service is the go-between in this process. They process over 45,000 requests each year from libraries in the state and throughout the nation. They are the first to receive your request from the MPL and follow your request as it moves through the process until the transaction is completed. If the material you requested is in the Regional collection or the Worcester Public Library collection, you can bet on getting your materials in two weeks. You will wait longer if you request goes beyond this point, and the search is carried out regionally or statewide. If your request still goes unfilled, ILL services will go further and do a search of collections of cooperating libraries nationwide.

The introduction of communication between the library and Regional ILL fax machines has helped to speed up some rush requests. Copies of articles, if they are available from the Worcester Public Library, have approximately a 24 to 48 hour turn around. The wait for a request for a book can be as little as one week if the title is on the shelves in the Regional or Worcester collections.

Last year, the MPL processed 429 interlibrary loan requests. The cost of providing this service at a local level was $4,550. If we bought the titles necessary to fill these requests, the cost to the community would have been $15,420 not including the cost of manpower and supplies. However, despite the fact that budgets all over are tight and getting tighter, and demands for library services are increasing, ILL does not supplant the library's collection and reference services. We still attempt to provide resources to meet the ordinary needs and interests of you, our primary clientele.

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

While clipping out some of my former "Windows" and filing them, I came across an article about my son and his family down in Leesburg, Virginia where he works for Xerox as a teacher. He and his wife have three children of their own, two they have adopted, and, at any time, they will have one or two more as foster children. I really don't know how they do it, but they do manage.

Both my son and his wife came from fairly large families themselves. There were five in her family and four in his, so they are used to having lots of people around them. They both have a deep heart of love for God first of all, and thus a great love for children. Some of their cases in foster care and adoption are really heartbreaking, but now these children are surrounded by love, care, and discipline.

It wasn't until after my grandfather died that I was told that my mother had been adopted. When I learned of that, I had a deeper love for my grandfather than I had had, even when I knew him as my grandfather. What a wonderful thing to do, to bring up someone else's child as your own.

God, our heavenly Father, has done that for those who put their hope and trust in the Son of God, Jesus Christ. Through belief in Him, we are heirs and joint-heirs, and have the right to be called Sons of God. Amen....
